Verdipapirfondet Storebrand Fremtid 10

UCITS (equity fund) launch date 2020-xx-xx

Managed by Storebrand Asset Management AS | Org. No. 930 208 868 | a subsidiary of Storebrand ASA

Objective and Investment Policy

Storebrand Fremtid 10 is a balanced fund that aims to achieve long-term excess returns beyond the fund's benchmark index. The fund invests in the entire range of the Storebrand Group's fund selection, and the equity percentage will normally be around 10 per cent. Long-term excess returns are sought to be achieved by varying the fund's exposure to the equity and fixed income markets, sectors and different geographical regions in line with the manager's market views.

Derivatives may be used to ensure less expensive or more efficient portfolio management. The fund is managed in accordance with Storebrand's sustainable investment principles. The Fund benchmark consists of MSCI World and Norwegian Regular Markets 3-year duration (NORM123D3) in the ratio 10/90. The fund receives interest payments from its investments, and these are reinvested on an ongoing basis and are thus included in the unit value. At year-end, the fund's realized return is distributed to unit holders. As a general rule, the dividend is reinvested, but investors may choose to receive cash dividend.

Risk and Reward Profile

The risk / return indicator shows the relationship between risk and return for the fund. A higher ranking on the scale means an opportunity for higher returns, but also a greater risk of losing money. The indicator is based on how the fund's value has changed over the past five years (benchmark index is used for funds with shorter history), and is not a sure indicator of future development. The lowest category, 1, cannot be considered completely risk-free. This fund is placed in risk class 2, but over time the fund can move both right and left on the scale. This is because the indicator is based on historical data, which gives no guarantee of future risk / return.

The value of the Fund's investments is affected, positively and negatively, by the daily developments in the markets in which the securities are traded (market risk). The indicator does not take into account particularly unusual events, such as devaluation, political changes or major unforeseen fluctuations in the securities markets. Several other types of risk can also affect the value of the fund without being fully reflected in the risk / return indicator.

Share classes

The following share classes are available:

Share class A (ISIN NOxx...): Open for subscriptions in NOK (minimum NOK 100)

Share class N (ISIN NOxx...): Available for distributors under certain conditions

Rights and duties of the unit holders

Each unit holder owns a notional share in the Fund that is equivalent to the holder's share of the total fund units issued. A unit holder does not have the right to demand the division or dissolution of the Fund. The unit holders have no liability with regard to the obligations of the mutual fund in excess of the deposits they have made. The operation of a mutual fund is conducted by a management company, which makes all arrangements concerning the fund. Amendments in the Articles of Association and merger of funds require 75 % unitholders' approval and subsequent approval by regulatory authorities. Similar method is assumed by substantial changes to the fund's investment strategy. With the consent of the supervisory authorities, the management of the fund can be assigned to another management company or a decision can be made to wind up the fund. Notices shall be conveyed by letter or through the public media. Unitholders of the mutual funds managed by Storebrand Asset Management AS choose two of its board members. Elections occur on election meetings in accordance with rules laid down in Storebrand Asset Management AS funds' Articles of Association. Negotiable unit certificates are not issued. The register of unit holders is maintained by Storebrand Asset Management AS. The units are registered by name, and powers of attorney governing their disposal can be attached to them. The units are not subject to a lock-in period. Unitholders will be notified of changes in holdings, annual statements and realization statements, and other fund reporting through Storebrand's or Delphi's trading portal (via log in solution on www.storebrand.no or www.delphi.no). Shareholders may, by agreement, receive annual statements and realization statements by mail.

Publication of net asset value (NAV)

The price of a unit is announced by Oslo Børs ASA and sent to a number of different media. Business papers such as Dagens Næringsliv and Finansavisen publish the prices on a daily basis. They are also published on a number of websites, including www.storebrand.no, www.ose.no and www.morningstar.no.

Valuation

The basis for calculating the value of a unit shall be the market value of the securities portfolio plus the value of the fund's liquid assets/receivables, accrued income not yet due and the value of any deficit to be brought forward, minus liabilities and accrued expenses not yet due, including contingent tax liabilities. Delphi Global, Delphi Europe and Delphi Nordic are valued at current market prices at 16:00 Norwegian time. The calculations for all other funds is normally based on the first closing price of the underlying stock exchange for the respective fund's cut-off time. In the absence of any useful market rates, the management company shall make its valuation based on the most recently negotiated prices and/or the market's interest rate level for corresponding securities.

Subscriptions and redemptions

Units can be subscribed for and redeemed through Storebrand Asset Management AS or through the management company's selected distributors. Units are subscribed for and redeemed on a forward unknown price basis. The cut-off time for unit trades is initially 15:00 CET every business day, but the management company can set a different cut-off time in connection with public holidays. Information about changed cut-off time will be announced on the management company's website (www.storebrand.no/saminfo). For a trade to be processed on the same day, it must be in the hands of the management company before in the cut-off time. Redemptions will then be executed in such a way that unit holders receive a price based on the subsequent valuation. Subscriptions will be executed as soon as the management company has received the calculated value of the funds that the unit holders deposit. Regarding subscriptions and redemptions, the management company makes reservations concerning delayed processing of the unit trades as a result of technical or other factors. Subscription and redemption orders can be sent to Storebrand Asset Management AS, mutual fund administration, P.O. Box 484, 1327 Lysaker. Alternatively, orders can be scanned and sent electronically to fondskunde@storebrand.no.

If interests of the unit holders or general public interests require action, the management company may apply the Norwegian Financial Supervisory Authority (Finanstilsynet) for permission to postpone the fund value calculation and redemption claims from the unit holders partly or in total. Accordingly, Finanstilsynet may instruct the management company to suspend the right of redemption partly or in total, if they find it appropriate in order to protect the interest of the unit holders or the general public.

Savings agreement

A savings agreement can be set up with regular subscriptions to the mutual fund. The number of subscribed units is calculated at the subscription rate determined on the day the money is value-dated to the fund's bank account. Unitholders are encouraged to additional monitoring of their savings agreement subsequent to changes, and if necessary contact the management company. This is to ensure that fund, savings amount, payment date and other issues around the savings agreement are correct at any time.

Fees and expenses

All fees and expenses associated with the management of the fund, with the exception of transaction based expenses and expenses related to the sale and redemption of units, are included in the management commission. Transaction-based expenses are brokerage fees as well as bank charges and deposit fees that are incurred in the execution of transactions for the trust. Fees and commission for the depositary are agreed separately each year. Commission is incurred daily according to account. The management company is under the obligation to cover other direct expenses for the fund with the exception of tax liabilities and other extraordinary costs which may occur if necessary to protect the interest of the unit holders. If deemed to be in the interest of the unit holders, the management company will, on behalf of the fund, claim refund of withholding tax and pursue legal claims (including class actions). In this regard, the fund can be charged costs directly, or indirectly by reducing the payment (gain) for the fund. If a unit holder acts in a way that may have negative consequences for the other unit holders of the fund (e.g frequent trading), Storebrand Asset Management AS reserve the right to charge the unit holder with subscription and/or redemption fees as specified in the fund's Articles of Association in order to cover additional transaction costs incurred.

Techniques for achieving efficient portfolio management

The mutual fund has an opportunity to lend out the fund's securities in accordance with section 6-8 of the Securities Regulations with the aim of achieving incomes for the fund. The scope of the lending will vary, but must be limited to a maximum of 20 per cent of the fund's assets, and only shares may be lent out. It is assumed that the fund's financial risk will not be significantly affected by the lending operations. The fund's securities may only be lent out to credit institutions, insurance companies, investment companies or clearing houses, and borrowers must provide the fund with security. The fund uses J.P. Morgan Bank Luxembourg S.A. as broker of securities loans. The broker will receive a fee for this brokerage activity. All net incomes resulting from the loans will accrue to the fund. Neither the management company nor other companies in the Storebrand Group receive any payment from the fund for administering or executing loans apart from the funds' normal management fees. The loans are provided on market terms. The lending activity is not regarded as entailing any increased risk of a conflict of interest.

Marketing and distribution

The information in this prospectus is intended solely for investors domiciled in the countries where the mutual funds are registered for sales and marketing. The mutual funds may not be marketed or distributed, either directly or indirectly, to investors who are subject to U.S. jurisdictions. Fund shares may not be subscribed for by US taxpayers. With US taxpayers means any person who falls within the definition of the term "US Person" under Regulation S promulgated under the US Securities Act 1933.

Tax regulations – for the securities fund

The mutual fund is a separate taxpayer that is on the whole subject to normal corporation tax and has some of its share revenues taxed according to the Tax Exemption Method. The fund is exempt from paying tax on share gains and is not granted any tax allowance for share losses. Three per cent of the dividend earned in the EEA is taxable while dividend earned outside the EEA is taxable in its entirety. Other incomes are mainly taxable at a prevailing tax rate that is equivalent to the rate for ordinary income and a tax allowance is granted for losses. A fund whose portfolio consisted of less than 20 per cent shares at the beginning of the year is granted a tax deduction for all the return it has distributed. Funds that consist of 20-80 per cent shares may deduct a proportionate share of the return they have distributed, while funds that consist of 80 per cent shares are not granted any tax allowance for amounts they have distributed. The fund is exempt from wealth tax.

Tax regulations – for personal unit holders with tax liability in Norway

Personal unitholders in a mutual fund are taxed at the tax rate for ordinary income and granted a tax allowance for losses. Share incomes are taxed in accordance with the Shareholder Model, which means that some of the fund's share incomes are protected from tax (threshold interest rate). The use of the threshold interest rate requires the units to be redeemed at a gain and the full use of the threshold interest rate requires the total gain during the ownership period to exceed the total threshold interest rate during the ownership period. Any unused threshold interest rate for some units may not be transferred to other units. Before taxation, the tax basis is to be increased by an adjustment factor so that the effective tax rate for share incomes is higher than the rate for ordinary income. Transfers between funds are regarded as a sale.

Unit holders that own equity fund units through a share savings account (ASK) are taxed according to the separate rules applicable to such accounts. Further information on the taxation of share savings accounts may be obtained from the Norwegian Tax Administration (skatteetaten) and/or at storebrand.no.

Investments in mutual funds through an insurance solution (unit linked) are taxed according to separate tax rules. Further information on such taxation may be obtained from the Norwegian Tax Administration (skatteetaten) and/or the relevant product supplier.

Tax regulations – for companies with tax liability in Norway

Unit holders that are companies are treated as company shareholders and taxed according to the exemption model. Companies refers to limited liability companies and companies that are equivalent to limited liability companies. In addition, associations, foundations, municipalities, county municipalities, inter municipal companies and certain estates in bankruptcy or administration are covered by the exemption model.

Tax regulations – for unit holders with tax liability abroad

Foreign unit holders are liable to withholding tax in Norway at the rate resulting from the tax agreement. The individual tax agreement may contain exemptions for withholding tax if the proportion of units owned by the unit holder in the trust comprise a specified percentage.

Risk

The mutual fund's return can vary considerably within a year. The individual unit holder's profits or loss will therefore depend on the exact times that units are subscribed for and redeemed. For investments in a mutual fund, there is no guarantee covering the invested amount equivalent to the deposit guarantee that is applicable to bank deposits of up to 2 million kroner in Norwegian banks.

Complaints

The Complaints Board for Consumers in Banking and Finance Matters (Finansklagenemda) handles complaints related to mutual funds. The Board is an independent, publicly financed body with a permanent secretariat consisting of legal professionals. If a complaint is to be processed by the Complaints Board, the issue must have been discussed with the management company, without reaching an agreement. Initially, the Complaints Board will motivate the management company and the unit holder to find a solution. If the dispute cannot be resolved, the case will be submitted for a formal consideration by the Board. Complaints to the Board shall be made in writing; cases are handled free of charge.

Articles of Association

The mutual fund is an independent legal entity with separate articles of association regulating the operation of the fund. The Articles of Association are drawn up in line with the standards of the Financial Supervisory Authority of Norway (Finanstilsynet) and approved by the Financial Supervisory Authority of Norway. The fund's Articles of Association is enclosed to the prospectus, but can otherwise be obtained upon request to the fund management company, its distributors or from the company's website at www.storebrand.no.

The accounts are concluded as at 31 December each year. The annual and semi annual reports are available upon request to the management company, or at www.storebrand.no. Unitholders may request that the documents be sent free of charge.

Index aware funds from Storebrand are expected to have a low expected tracking error under normal market conditions. The intervals given in the table above must not be considered absolute, and may be exceeded for shorter or longer periods. There are several possible sources of expected tracking error, for example, but not limited to a) the nature of the product with handling of subscriptions and redemptions, as well as, cash holdings b) properties of the product such as exclusions as a result of the Storebrand standard or other sustainability criteria, internal limitations in investment universe, or as a result of currency hedging and the selection of hedged currencies, or c) other matters related to investments such as tax, reinvestment of dividends, investments with lower liquidity or that the methodology for currency hedging of the fund differs compared with the benchmark index.

The management process applies a risk model which describes the correlation between the shares' time series, as well as an optimization algorithm aiming at keeping the expected tracking error as low as possible. All the index aware funds are invested directly in equities, except Storebrand Global ESG Plus Valutasikret and Storebrand Global Indeks Valutasikret, which invest in Storebrand Global ESG Plus and Storebrand Global Indeks, respectively (master feeders). Storebrand Index - Norge shall at all times comply with the placement limit for index funds pursuant to the Securities Funds Act section 6-8, which means that investments in shares issued by the same issuer may amount to up to 20 per cent of the Fund's assets. However, the 20 percent limit can be increased to 35 percent for a single issuer when necessary for special market conditions, such as the Norwegian market, which is relatively small with some large companies that have high weight in the index.
