Descriptions of Internal Control Procedures and the Main Features of Risk Management Systems

Internal Control Environment

Control operations are embedded in the activities of Robit's organization. Controlling is executed in connection with the steering of business processes, supported by comprehensive reporting.

Robit's control environment is based on instructions, the business culture and on the way of working adopted by the company's managers and employees. The Group has established its values or guiding principles which encourage everyone at Robit to adopt an active and ethical way of working both with various stakeholders and within the Group.

The foundation of the internal control process relating to activities is built up around the Group's procedures and other directives and instructions. The responsibility structure of the Group is based on authority inherent in the positions and work descriptions, segregation of duties and the "four-eyes" and "one-over" decision making principles. Effective internal control requires that duties are properly allocated to employees and potential conflicts of interests are identified and eliminated. A satisfactory control environment is ensured through internal analyses and evaluations of key processes.

Group Finance function supports the business units in analyzing their performance and profitability and in the decision-making concerning various business choices. Group CFO, local finance heads and outsourced accounting service providers are responsible for ensuring that control procedures are in place and implemented in the units. It is the ICT function's task to ensure that the security checks of ICT systems throughout the Group companies are functioning and are conducted at a sufficient level.

Control Activities

The internal control activities are in place, among others, to verify that the company's financial reports provide true and fair information about the financial position of the Group. It is the duty of the Board of Directors and the CEO to organize the internal control activities. Each member of the Board of Directors receives monthly a report on the financial position of the Group.

In practice, control activities are conducted in the meetings of the Board of Directors and the management groups, where the results of the activities are reviewed. Group Finance and the company's finance network support and coordinate the financial management and control of the activities of the Group.

The internal control of Robit has been decentralized across Group functions, who monitor the compliance of the operating guidelines approved by the Board concerning their areas of responsibility. In addition to the Group-level guidance, controlling measures are taken also at business unit and plant level. Controlling measures include both general and more detailed control procedures aiming to prevent, reveal and correct errors and deviations. Issues raising in internal control are reported also to the Authorized Public Accountant firm.

In the continuing business operations several controls activities are exercised to prevent potential errors and deviations in financial reporting. Moreover, the control activities are in place to help reveal and correct the identified errors. Robit categorizes control activities into three categories. Documented instructions help the organization to standardize the monitoring of tasks. Continuous and regular reporting conveying feedback on the performance of Group functions and entities ensures that instructions and defined processes are followed. In critical processes, specific authorization matrix is applied in the workflow and segregation of duties is implemented to ensure adequate control.

The need for separate evaluations, as well as their scope and frequency, will be defined by assessing risks and the effectiveness of ongoing monitoring procedures. Information security and related control activities play a key role when the features of ICT systems are being defined and applied.

Information and Communication

The Group accounting manual, policies and other directives and instructions relating to financial reporting are updated and communicated on a regular basis by management to all affected employees. In addition, a standard reporting package is used by the units. Group management and business unit management conduct monthly reviews that include an analysis of performance metrics and indicators assisting management to better understand the underlying business performance.

Follow-up

Ongoing responsibility for follow-up rests with the business units' management and finance functions.

Regular inspections by quality auditors or customer audit personnel cover also the internal controls of supply chain processes.

The Group's Finance function monitors the operations and processes of the Group units and the accuracy of external and internal financial reporting.

Risk Management

Risk management is considered an integral part of running the business of Robit, and the identification and assessment of risks is an essential element of internal control. The aim is to focus on the material risks that are significant from a business perspective. Risks are categorized into business risks caused by changes in the business environment and operational risks, caused by deficiencies in Robit's processes.

Operational risks are considered to have potentially a material value in transactions with external parties. However, Group instructions, process reviews, allocation of tasks and standards set up by quality operating systems help to establish a prudent environment in which exposure to material risks can be mitigated.

Risks relating to financial reporting are evaluated and monitored by the Board, aiming to ensure that the financial reporting of the Group is reliable, supports decision-making and serves the needs of external stakeholders. The valuation of assets, liabilities and contingent liabilities based on various evaluation assumptions and criteria may constitute a risk.

Future estimates and assumptions on the reporting date involving a significant risk of causing material changes in the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities are continuously evaluated. Complex and evolving factors having an impact on business circumstances may add uncertainty to the assessment of the carrying amounts of assets. To avoid errors in stating the fair values of assets or liabilities, regular reviews are made, e.g. by comparing material flows, values, and quantity and quality data with the information in accounting. The risk of errors due to irregularities and discontinuities in information is reduced by using established and automated system-based audit trails.

Insider Management

Robit complies with Nasdaq Helsinki Ltd's guidelines for insiders in force at any given time. In addition, the Board of Directors of the company has confirmed specific insider guidelines for the Company to complement Nasdaq Helsinki Ltd's guidelines for insiders. Company's insider guidelines were completely renewed due to Market Abuse Regulation ((EU) N:o 596/2014, "MAR"), effective as of 3 July 2016.

As a result of the MAR regulation, Robit has decided that after 3 July 2016 it will not maintain company specific register of permanent insiders. Persons involved in potential insider projects will be entered into project specific insider lists, established as needed.

Directors Required to Submit Notifications

Based on MAR Regulation, Robit is no longer obliged to maintain a public insider register. Instead, Robit maintains a list of company's directors and persons closely associated with them. Persons entered into that list have an obligation to notify Robit and Finnish Financial Supervisory Authority all transactions made with Robit's financial instruments by them or on behalf of them. Robit will disclose the notifications it has received as stock exchange releases as soon as possible. At Robit Group, the members of the Board of Directors and the CEO as well as the members of the Management Team as well as instances where these individuals have decision making power have been defined to be subject to the requirement to notify their transactions. This ruling applies also to the family members of these individuals. All individuals have been informed of this transaction notification protocol and they have instructed of the importance of insider regulation.

Disclosed stock exchange releases on the transaction notifications of directors and persons closely associated with them can be viewed at <https://www.robitegroup.com/investor/releases/>.

Closed Period

Since the MAR regulation came into force, as of 3 July 2016, Robit's defined directors are subject to comply with so called closed period. The closed period is applied prior to disclosure of financial reports. It lasts 30 calendar days, including the date of disclosure of a financial report. During the closed period, defined directors of Robit may not trade with the share or another financial instrument of the company. Also core persons preparing financial reports, among others, are subject to a similar 30-day closed period. The times of the closed periods are disclosed through a stock exchange release. Persons obligated to observe the closed periods are separately informed of each oncoming period.

During a closed period, trading with Robit's financial instruments by defined directors and core persons is possible only in certain very exceptional situations. An example of such an exceptional situation could be transaction conducted by director or core person to participate a share saving scheme of Robit employees, which is a prerequisite for a director's or a core person's position. Making an exception to the 30-days-long closed period requires that the company gives approval for the transaction in question. The exception cannot be applied if a director or a core person has inside information.

Trading by Directors and Key Persons

Directors and key persons, in addition to abiding by the closed period and other trade restrictions, must time their trading so that their trading does not deteriorate the general trust for the securities market. Robit recommends that directors and core persons shall make long-time investments to the company's shares and other financial instruments. Further, it is also recommendable to time the trading to a point in time when the market has as complete knowledge of the factors affecting the value of the share or the financial instrument as possible.

Monitoring and Control

All the persons with a duty to report have been instructed to declare their trading to the Insider Officer, who is Robit Group's IR and Communication Manager. Insider Officer is generally responsible for the administration insider issues with the company.

Without limiting to the obligations coming from MAR, Securities Marketing Act and Nasdaq Insider Guidelines, the Company's insider administration will assume responsibility for the following:

- internal communications concerning insider issues
- training in insider issues within the company
- preparing and maintaining lists of directors and their closely associated persons
- receiving notifications, which concern the transactions of the directors' and their closely associated persons, going-through the notifications and forwarding those to the Financial Supervisory Authority (if a directors/closely associated person has authorized the company to do so) and publishing the relating stock exchange release
- preparing and maintaining project-specific insider lists
- preparing lists of personnel, who are defined as core persons

- monitoring of the insider issues
- administering the information to be published on the Internet, if needed.

Related Party Transactions

The company has defined the principles and processes for related party transaction which enable the company to identify and follow-up these transactions, assess the nature of the transactions and their conditions and ensure that any conflicts of interest will be duly taken into account in the company's decision-making. The company complies with the of the Companies Act, the Corporate Governance code of the Securities Market Association and the requirements of international accounting standards in the monitoring and reporting of related activities.

The company maintains a list of related persons and entities to identify related party transactions. The company has identified its subsidiaries, Board members, CEO, members of the Management Team and their family members as a related group. It also includes companies that have control or significant influence over the aforementioned persons.

The related parties have been instructed on the importance of related party transaction monitoring and their reporting obligations. Ultimately, the identification and registration of related party transactions are carried out in connection with the payment of other financial transactions such as consultancy invoices and salaries and commissions. Supervision is carried out by the company financial management, which informs the Audit Committee and the board of related party transaction.

The contractual terms of the related party transactions shall be assessed with regard to the market practices generally accepted in the industry and, where appropriate, for example the normal commercial conditions with third parties like customers. In the event of transactions with the related party, the nature of the related action and its conditions shall be assessed in relation to the company's normal activities and normal commercial conditions. Related parties that do not belong to the company's normal activities or are made by way of deviating from normal commercial conditions require the board to decide on the implementation of the related party transaction.

If it would be necessary to make related party transactions, the basis for the transaction is carefully prepared and, where appropriate, to conduct external assessments and to ensure compliance with the provisions of the exclusion. In the preparation and implementation of related party transactions, the company also takes into account the specific reporting and disclosure obligations for related parties.
