Dassault Aviation welcomes the annulment of the exclusion of business aviation manufacturing from the European green taxonomy

(Saint-Cloud, France, June 24, 2026) – In 2023, the European Commission excluded the manufacturing of business aircraft from the European green taxonomy. Today, the European General Court ruled to annul this exclusion.

The court recognized that the Commission's 2023 decision blatantly failed to consider the specific characteristics of business aviation and its role in certain missions.

In particular, the ruling acknowledges the flexibility, speed, and connectivity of business aircraft.

Additionally, the Commission had insufficiently taken into account the possibility of using SAF (Sustainable Aviation Fuels).
