DIRECTORS' REPORT FOR Q1 2020

GROUP CEO'S REVIEW

The satisfactory results of the first quarter do not give an idea of the duration and impacts of the forthcoming Ice Age.

In the first quarter, Arco Vara earned money from rental and management fees for the Madrid Blvd building and from license fees paid by real estate brokerage and appraisal companies, as well as the sale of some Madrid Blvd and Iztok Parkside apartments. The cost base also decreased during the quarter. First, as a result of the partial repayment of the bank loan for the Madrid Blvd building and the cut of the interest rate by the bank and secondly, salary costs for the following months were decreased, due to the occurred economic crisis.

The primary short-term challenge for the Group continues to be the realization of the already built and largely pre-sold Iztok Parkside project. The Bulgarian government's decision at Christmas to transfer small street properties to the city of Sofia is being implemented, where we are no longer surprised by the fact that bureaucracy has now taken four months instead of the initial one month to be completed. It is therefore expected that a few months will elapse before the usage license is obtained. The good news is that customers are still waiting for apartments and have not yet expressed a desire to withdraw from pre-sale transactions. As an additional risk, we have to consider the possibility that the customers' purchasing power or motivation to purchase will nonetheless decrease during the second quarter. It also means keeping more money in the treasury than necessary.

Other developments in the field of construction in Estonia proceeded according to plan, whereas pre-sales continuing at a satisfactory pace until the end of the quarter. In Kodulahe and Kodukalda, 40% of the total area is covered by pre-sale agreements and more than half a year remains until the end of construction activity.

In Sofia, we froze the development of the Botanica Lozen development project on an indefinite basis. We may need our released equity to make favorable purchases to replenish the land bank.

In anticipation of the developments ahead, we can bring out the following thoughts.

First, during the second and third quarters, the Estonian and Bulgarian economies will perform worse prior to the moment when the stability will be regained and we will do better again. It is conceivable that the economy in both countries will decrease by 10% of GDP on an annual basis, the vast majority of which will be borne by the private sector and the people who earn money from it. The amount of services provided by the public sector and investments are rather growing.

Secondly, in the residential real estate market, we expect the transaction activity to shrink by more than 25% compared to 2019 (in Estonia we expect less than 37,000 transactions in 2020), as lessens A. the psychological readiness of most people to spend money and B. the purchasing power of people making money in the private sector. The reduction in purchasing power is primarily caused by the decrease in income, not by the diminishing in the financing capacity of banks. The financing capacity of banks is increasing due to the intervention of the European Central Bank, but the price of loans offered to consumers of real estate is also rising. According to the signs seen so far, the average Estonian and Bulgarian apartment buyer will not benefit significantly from the intervention of the European Central Bank.

Third, we will reach the level of transaction activity in 2018-2019 (in Estonia: 49,000 changes of ownership entered in the land register per year and the estimated number of long-term lease transactions per year is approximately the same) in 2022 at the earliest. The remainder of 2020 can be considered a period of decline in terms of both the number of transactions and transaction prices. The decline in transaction activity is followed by decline in real estate prices, which has already begun in some segments of the real estate market. It should be noted, however, that well-capitalized companies are unlikely to lower prices.

For Arco Vara, the assumptions given mean that when selling Iztok Parkside dwellings, it must be decided whether it is more beneficial for us A. to start new developments, decreasing the cost price of the development (construction price), B. replenish the land bank, or C. to direct equity to repurchases of shares during the downtime or to distribute it as dividends. A complete Ice Age scenario cannot be ruled out, where the market is overstuffed by ready-made apartments where the company is unable to sell them to anyone, while there are no new development projects to strive for either. As a conclusion, we need to evaluate the situation on an ongoing basis with an opportunistic mindset. The good news is that Arco Vara's equity ratio to total assets is high and there is no need for coercive steps in the realization of property or start developments. Our current situations is significantly different from the previous crisis, which for Arco Vara only passed by the end of 2013.

Hence, the Management Board is optimistic about Arco Vara and pessimistic about what lies ahead in the economy.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Activities of the group

Arco Vara AS and other entities of Arco Vara group (hereafter together 'the group') are engaged in real estate development and services related to real estate. The group considers Estonia and Bulgaria as its home markets.

The group develops complete living environments and commercial real estate. Fully developed housing solutions are sold to the end-consumer. In some cases, the group also develops commercial properties until they start to generate cash flow for two possible purposes: for the support of the group's cash flows or for resale. The group is currently holding completed commercial properties that generate rental income.

From the beginning of 2019, the group itself no longer offers real estate brokerage and appraisal services, but in both Estonia, Latvia and Bulgaria, these services continue to be provided under Arco Vara trademarks through license agreements, from which the group earns license fees.

Additional information on key persons of Arco Vara is presented on company's corporate web page www.arcovara.com.

DESCRIPTION OF MAIN RISKSStrategic risk

Most of the group's equity is invested into real estate development. The group is focused mainly on residential real estate development where development cycle lasts for years, starting from the acquisition of a land plot, moving on to detail planning, design and construction, and ending with the sale of end products to customers. The equity is invested mainly in the early phase of the cycle (purchase of land) on the assumption that there will be a demand for certain products in the future. Considering that the demand for development product is largely based on forecasts, the main risk for the group is investing equity into a development product for which there is no or too little demand in the future.

For mitigating the risk, the group: (i) invests equity into different development projects in different markets (in 2020, in Sofia and Tallinn), (ii) monitors current demand and supply in its home markets and (iii) makes efforts to narrow the time gap between making initial investment and selling the final product – by signing pre-agreements with clients, acquiring land with no or little upfront equity investment etc.

Credit risk

The group considers credit risks to be substantially mitigated. The final sale of real estate development product takes place simultaneously with customer payment, therefore customer debts do not arise. Also, cash and cash equivalents are not held in the same banking group.

Liquidity and interest rate risks

The base currency of all of the group's loan agreements is euro and the base interest rate is 1, 3 or 6 months' EURIBOR. As a result, the group is exposed to developments on international capital markets. The group does not use hedging instruments to mitigate its long-term interest rate risk. In Q1 2020, the group's interest-bearing liabilities increased by 708 thousand euros and amounted to 13,028 thousand euros on 31 March 2020, out of which 7,124 thousand euros is due within next 12 months. The group's cash and cash equivalents totalled 1,181 thousand euros as of 31 March 2020 (31 December 2019 870 thousand euros). In Q1 2020, interest payments on interest-bearing liabilities totalled 113 thousand euros (in Q1 2019: 117 thousand euros). The group's weighted average loan interest rate was 4.6% as of 31 March 2020. This is an increase by 0.4 percentage points compared to the end of year 2019. The reason for the increase is the new borrowings raised in 2020 for Estonian developments which bear an above-average interest rate.

Currency risk

Real estate sales are mostly nominated in euros, as a result of which the group's assets and liabilities structure does not involve a significant currency risk. The group is not protected against currency devaluations. Liquid assets are mostly held on demand or short-term deposits denominated in euros.
