SKAKO Vibration wins 25 mio. DKK order for scrubbing equipment for phosphate mining plant in Morocco

SKAKO Vibration has once again been chosen by l'Office Chérifien des Phosphates (OCP), one of the world's largest phosphate producers, to supply a line of scrubbing equipment for a phosphate mining plant in Morocco.

The order represents a value of more than 25 million DKK and includes a large drum washer and a big dewatering vibratory screen to dilute and clean phosphate slurry which is transported by pipeline from the mining site to the port of shipment.

"We already, successfully, delivered this type of rotating drum washer to OCP two years ago, and this is one of the largest drums of its category in the world. I am very happy that OCP has chosen to renew their cooperation with SKAKO once again. This project is included in OCP's investment plan to increase its production, and we already know that two other scrubbing lines will have to be purchased and installed at the same mining site in the years to come. We will of course work hard to also be a strong contender for these projects", says Lionel Girieud, managing director of SKAKO Vibration."

The entire revenue from the order is expected to be included in 2019.
