

SCOR Investment Partners expands its sustainable investment offering, with the launch of a corporate loan fund focused on the preservation of natural capital

As a sustainable investor and aware of environmental issues, SCOR Investment Partners announces the launch of a new corporate loan fund focused on the preservation of natural capital: SCOR Euro Loans Natural Capital.

The fund, classified as Article 9 under EU Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation (SFDR) was granted the LuxFLAG ESG Applicant fund status¹. SCOR Euro Loans Natural Capital fund will aim to finance companies committed to limiting their environmental impact, through the sustainable use of water, energy, or a policy of waste reduction. The closed-end structure of the fund will allow to benefit from the current favourable investment conditions and to offer a gross target return of Euribor+5%².

With its seasoned investment team specializing in corporate loans, SCOR Investment Partners puts the preservation of natural capital at the heart of its investment focus and is committed to developing innovative sustainable strategies for institutional investors. The fund invests exclusively in Sustainability-Linked Loans with environmental objectives related to waste, water and energy management.

SCOR Euro Loans Natural Capital, available to institutional investors, has secured an initial commitment of EUR 50 million from SCOR, the company's anchor investor and is targeting EUR 500 million in commitments.

Fabrice Rossary, CEO of SCOR Investment Partners, comments: "The preservation of natural capital is at the heart of the major decisions that need to be made to protect future generations. If managed effectively, all three factors - water, waste, and energy - make a significant contribution to protecting the environment. Investors, both asset owners and investment fund managers, also have a role to play in this regard. This new strategy reinforces our positioning as a responsible investor serving the real economy."
