ABOUT THE S&P GLOBAL CSA

The Corporate Sustainability Assessment (CSA) is an annual evaluation of companies' sustainability practices. Covering over 13,000 companies globally, the CSA uses a consistent, rule-based methodology with specific approaches for 62 different industries. There are approximately 110 questions for each industry, with each question falling under one of approximately 23 different themes or criteria. The criteria, in turn, fall under one of the three dimensions: Environmental ("E"), Social ("S"), and Governance & Economic ("G"). Some criteria are common across industries, while others are industry specific. The CSA generates a total ESG score for every company covered as well as individual scores for the three dimensions, with 100 being the best score in each case.
