GreenMobility appoints Kasper Gjedsted as new Group CEO

GreenMobility has appointed Kasper Gjedsted (48) as the new Group CEO, as of 6 March 2023. The appointment follows an extensive global search conducted by a leading consulting company.

Kasper Gjedsted is an experienced CEO with a proven track record of creating profitable companies across multiple industries. He previously served as CEO of Avis Budget Group in Denmark and Sweden. Kasper also led Sixt in Denmark. He has years of experience from the software industry and from MAERSK and has lived and worked in Germany, the UAE, Sweden, Denmark and Switzerland

Tue Østergaard, Chairman of the Board: "We are delighted to welcome Kasper Gjedsted to GreenMobility as our new Group CEO. With his extensive experience and track record of creating profitable companies, Kasper is ideally suited to lead GreenMobility through our revised strategy to reach group profitability in 2024."

Commenting on his appointment, Kasper Gjedsted said: "I am excited to join GreenMobility. The company is at the forefront of the shift towards sustainable green transportation. I look forward to building on the company's strong foundation and great management team leading it to the next phase of growth and profitability."

The existing management team of Anders Wall as Group CFO and Kim Hein as COO will continue unchanged.
