Veolia chooses Atos to develop its secure collaborative environment with G Suite from Google Cloud

Paris, le 16 mai 2019 – At the 4th Atos Technology Days at VivaTech, Atos announces that it has been chosen by Veolia, the world leader in utilities, to develop a secure space in the cloud using Google Cloud's G Suite collaborative suite.

Once deployed, the controlled space will allow Veolia employees to confidently manage their documents through a collaborative environment based securely in the cloud - and benefit from the G Suite user experience.

With this unique and innovative "as a Service" offer, Atos provides Veolia with all its cybersecurity expertise to meet Veolia's security and data management requirements, with the following solutions and services:

- Atos Trustway solutions for encryption key control;
- Atos Evidian solutions for access management and identity governance;
- A selection of products from Atos' cybersecurity partners;
- A Security Operation Center (SOC) with 24/7 monitoring capability;
- Level 1, 2 and 3 support services;
- Training of key users of the service.

"This unique solution, co-developed with Atos, will allow us to successfully complete our SATAWAD migration program to a G Suite and Chromebook environment with a tailor-made offer perfectly adapted to our need to control certain data with an optimal level of security" explains Eric Haza, Director of Legal Affairs, member of the Executive Committee at Veolia.

"As a trusted third party, Atos allows Veolia to take full advantage of the best of Google Cloud collaborative solutions We are proud to contribute to shaping a secure and controlled collaborative working environment," added Eric Grall, SEVP Global Operations at Atos.
