PARIS, October 29, 2025 – Stellantis honored 54 outstanding global suppliers on October 28 across 20 categories, recognizing their remarkable performance, reliability, and commitment to operational excellence.

Held in Paris, France – the birthplace of Stellantis' iconic brands Peugeot, Citroën and DS Automobiles – the event blended heritage with innovation. Now in its fifth year, the ceremony was hosted by Monica Genovese, Chief Purchasing Officer, and attended by the Stellantis Leadership Team. More than 200 global sourcing partners gathered to honor those who exemplify the highest standards of quality, delivery and collaboration.

In addition to the awards presentations, attendees were provided with keynote presentation sessions covering Stellantis' future product strategy, brand strategy, customer experience, and quality initiatives. The event concluded with a powerful address from Stellantis CEO, Antonio Filosa, who emphasized the strategic importance of supplier partnerships:

"Today's event was more than recognition – it reflects a realignment that meets the evolving needs of our customers and our industry," said CEO Antonio Filosa. "Together with our suppliers and partners, we are strengthening the pillars of innovation, sustainability and operational excellence. This collaboration is essential as we navigate a rapidly changing market and prepare for the future of mobility."

Monica Genovese echoed this sentiment, expressing deep appreciation for the role of suppliers in Stellantis' success:

"Strong supplier partnerships are the cornerstone of our success. By working side by side, we can navigate external risks and challenges, ensure the delivery of high-quality components, and build exceptional vehicles for our customers. Congratulations to all the suppliers recognized this year;

their dedication and excellence set the standard for our entire supply chain community.”
