cBrain has delivered its first project for USDA

Copenhagen, August 3, 2020

In November 2019, cBrain signed its first U.S. Government contract. cBrain is now pleased to announce that the project has been completed and accepted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The purpose of the project was to help bring together data from multiple agencies to help America's farmers. Through the use of technology and the support of several partners, USDA has been able to deliver a streamlined digitized approach to information key to a farmer's work.

While IT projects regularly require on-site work, this project demonstrates how IT projects can be delivered solely based on a virtual organization. In this case including several government organizations and suppliers all working together.
